

I'd like to file a complaint against the FCC itself. The agency is conducting an unfair witch hunt that blatantly violates the First Amendment. There is ZERO need for this kind of gestapo tactic other than striking fear into those that would criticize the government and seek the freedom of the individual. I am personally appaled that 12% of my telephone bill every month goes to fund your McCarthy-esque rampage. This agency needs to be disbanded, as it no longer functions in the interest of the public good. You have served to stifle competition in the local telephone markets, and now your serve to stifle the rights of Americans to express themselves. The incident at the Superbowl was unfortunate, but in every poll I've seen that the general public has responded to, an overwhelming majority say that the government and the media have blown it out of proportion. So what, a breast was shown. Big deal. That happens in public all across America as women breast feed. Does that traumatize anyone? No. This .5 second airing of a bare breast was missed by a large portion of the Superbowl audience. Of course, we all got to see it again and again on the news. That was more traumatic as newscasters spun it into the most evil event in the history of TV.

Your agency needs to quit catering to a very vocal minority and represent the views of all Americans. We the people, are a diverse bunch and most of us are NOT this easily offended. We do NOT need you stomping out thoughts and ideas just because they disagree with the establishment and the religious right.
